Welcome to Issue Number 1 of our newsletter, all of the women involved in WAU / HomeFront are working, raising children and going to college, so we haven't been able to dedicate enough time to write the 50+ pages for HomeFront Magazine, we are going to do a 6 / 10 page newsletter for the foreseeable future.

We know this is a huge decline in how much info you are getting, but doing this format for now means you will actual be getting regular copies of the newsletter from our website.

If you would like to submit anything for future issues contact us at wauirehqs@hotmail.com

What are your kids listening too?

Lady Gaga and her ilk have the power and influence to rally all the freaks, and deviants behind her, and smother out all those who dare oppose such a thing (that's us). Yes, all in the name of fun and entertainment. Do Our Folk understand what is happening here? This fruitcake (and a dangerous one at that) has sold million albums worldwide and No. 7 ranking by Forbes in their most powerful women in the world. If she is a puppet (and she is) of sinister forces then they have something very powerful. The deviants will multiply now they have someone very powerful at the helm of their twisted crusade.

No way are they (deviants and wrongins) going back into the closet or back down the sewer. Why would they? Try and imagine what it must be like in the shoes of the so - called downtrodden, twisted and horrible. Try and imagine the HATE they must have for us for keeping them hidden and ashamed. Does anyone really believe their going to give all this up? Not on your Nellie, they are. Can you now see where this leaves us? Remember, the fat hates the thin more than the other way round. The ugly hate the beautiful more than the beautiful hate the ugly. And so does the deviant hate the healthy more than the other way round.

Such hatred is why Communism is so MURDEROUS. This is a chink in our amour Karl Marx got onto. In fact, it's the basis of his MUTINY called Communism. Anyway, their MUTINY will overwhelm us if we don't do something NOW!

White Nationalist must come up with DRASTIC measure to lesser the effect this is having on the young. Failure to do so will be A Greening of America scenario with no way back...

Myths, history and legends!

The POOKA

The púca which is Gaelic for spirit, fae, ghost, pooka, phouka, phooka, phooca, puca or púka is primarily a creature of Celtic folklore. Considered to be bringers both of good and bad fortune, they could either help or hinder rural and marine communities. The Púca can have dark fur or hair.

No fairy is more feared in Ireland than the dear ole pooka. This may be because it is always out and about after nightfall, creating harm and mischief, and because it can assume a variety of terrifying forms. The appearance in which the pooka is most seen is that of a sleek dark horse, the horse has magnificent sulphurous yellow eyes and a long wild mane. In this form, it roams large areas of countryside at night, tearing down fences and gates, scattering livestock in terror, trampling crops and generally doing damage around remote farms.

In parts of beloved County Laois, the pooka becomes a huge and hairy bogeyman who terrifies those abroad at night; in Waterford and Wexford, it appears as an eagle with a massive wingspan; and in Roscommon, as a black goat with curling horns. The pooka takes on so many forms one never knows whether it really is a pooka!

The mere sight of a pooka can prevent your hens laying their eggs or your cattle giving you milk, and it is the curse of all late night travelers as it is known to swoop them up on to its back and then throw them into muddy ditches or bog holes, this always makes me laugh, I would wish a few people I know encountered a Pooka.

The pooka has the power of human speech, and it has been known to stop in front of certain houses and call out the names of those it wants to take upon its midnight dashes. If that person refuses, the pooka will vandalise their property because it is a very vindictive fairy.

I'm sure many of us have come across someone similar to a Pooka in our lives, especially its vindictive side.

I use vinegar, water, baking soda, coconut oil, essential oils and many other things to help with my daily cleaning and general life stuff. Life moves so fast we are always on the go, so we do not always have the time to make sure we have all the cleaning supplies we need. Here are some very helpful household tips using common household items. Not only does this help us in a pinch, but it saves money finding multiple uses for one item.

- If you are having trouble scrubbing that stubborn burnt on mess out of a pan? I burned mine pretty good only last night, so I filled the pan with water, added a drop of dish soap and one tablespoon of baking soda and let it soak for 15 minutes, the alkaline in the baking soda helps break down the mess so it takes less elbow grease to clean, it took me only about 2-3 mins to then clean it after the soaking time.

- If your kitchen sinks keeps getting clogged, you should pour in $\frac{1}{2}$ a cup of baking soda and $\frac{1}{2}$ a cup of vinegar. After an hour, pour one quart of boiling water down the drain. The very bubbly mixture will break up the entire clog and the boiling water gets out the residue through the pipes.

- Laundry day, but your out of fabric softener, ok this rarely happens to me, I am a bit of a fabric softener addict I just can't kick the habit, in a pinch if I do run out I add $\frac{1}{2}$ a cup of apple cider vinegar to the rinse cycle and the laundry comes out soft.

- When you are cleaning out the bathroom or sink the chrome fixtures are always tricky so here is an easy fix: After you wash them, buff them out with a dryer sheet, I don't use drier sheets anymore, so I keep about 5 in the house that I reuse over and over, the waxy residue will repel water and oil leaving the faucet sparkling longer, just don't put your mouth near the faucet.

- Static electricity on electronics makes dusting annoying. Next time you dust use a dryer sheet to wipe down the electronics. The anti-static from the sheet will help ward off dust longer.

- If you like cooking fish, but the leftover smell in the kitchen is less than desirable you can try this tip, I recently gave up fish so no longer have that stench in my kitchen. Use your slow cooker; fill it up with 3 cups of water and 5 tablespoons of baking soda. Turn on low for 2 hours. For an added scent, use lemon slices and ginger in the water too, lemon slices is definitely one of my favourites for sure.

- Love spending a lovely evening outside, the next day you discover you're covered in bug bites. A natural remedy: Rub a tad of virgin coconut oil on the bite. The oil has anti-inflammatory and immunity boosting properties that help stop the itching and heal the sore faster. For on the go: clean out an old lip gloss jar. Fill it with the oil and keep with you while you're out and about, I use coconut oil for so much in our household, it is a must have for the bathroom, bedroom and kitchen!

Red Velvet Cake

Ingredients:

300g self-rising flour
300g caster sugar
225ml vegetable oil
1 teaspoon bicarbonate of soda
1 teaspoon white vinegar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 eggs
225ml buttermilk
3 or 4 tablespoons red food colouring

For the cream cheese frosting

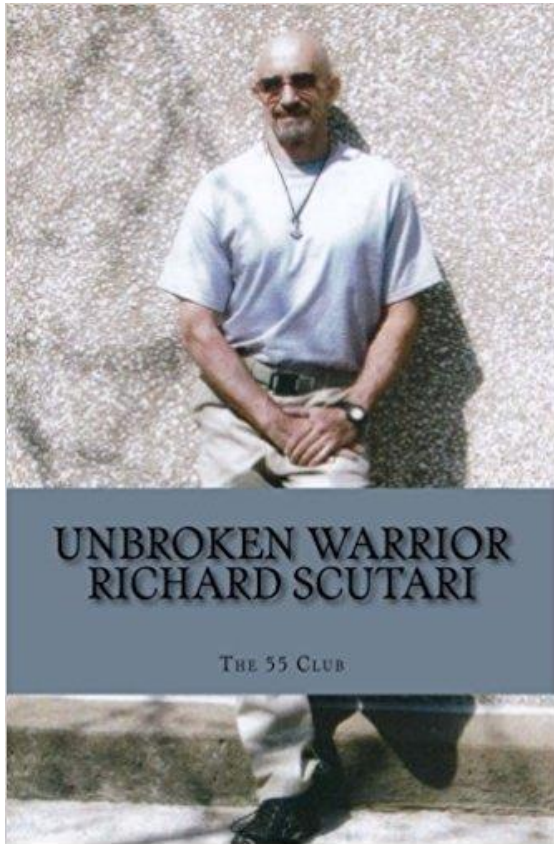

225g cream cheese
110g butter, softened
450g icing sugar
1 or 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
60g chopped nuts (optional)
Preheat oven to 180 C / Gas 4. Grease or line three 20cm round cake tins.
In a large bowl, mix together sugar, oil and eggs. Add food colouring and vinegar to buttermilk. Add bicarbonate of soda to flour. Add flour mixture and buttermilk mixtures alternately to the sugar-egg mixture. Mix well. Stir in 1 teaspoon vanilla. Pour mixture into prepared cake tins.
Bake for 20 to 25 minutes, or until a knife comes out clean. Remove and cool on wire racks.
Mix together cream cheese, butter, icing sugar and 1 or 2 teaspoons vanilla. Spread frosting on top of each cake, layer them, and then cover the top with the remaining cream cheese icing. Scatter over chopped nuts.

A Blast From The Past

Motherhood

Motherhood is a fortress of generations past, present and future. After all, isn't it women who bore the physical conditions of childbirth? If not for the white women where would the proud white men plant his seed? Our men have their measure of obligations to fulfil and they do so with honour and pride. As women, we have obligations to meet too and most do so with the same type of reverence.

Our communities are infested with diverse cultural practices. Foreign manners are disclosed our children are being subjected to this. In some schools, white children are forced to take foreign language classes. Their heads are being filled with debris from cultures other than their own. Perhaps if we could look at these things as educational exercises then they might have some merit, but they are not being used for education's sake. They are being used to disassemble what our ancestors worked so hard to put together.

We create our children with love. Let's raise them with love. They come into this world looking up to us – reaching out to us for guidance and nurturing. We have the ability to share our perceptions with our children and to teach them about faith, order, security, strength, patience, labour, reason, and yes even of struggle.

The most precious gift, though besides love that we can give to our children is the gift of recognition. Recognition of whom and what they are. We can teach them to recognize and to hold dear the integrity of white existence.

Motherhood – A fortress of generations past, present and future. As women... as mothers, we can do our part to secure a promising future for our folk.

How to Dry Lavender!

I absolutely love and adore the smell of lavender drying around my house. It has such a soothing and calming effect; I just cannot get enough of it!

You will need to begin harvesting your Lavender just prior to the flower buds fully opening and when they are a good vibrant colour. You can simply cut the stems, leaving them long. Take small bunches of cut flowers and make into bundles. When I make dried Lavender bundles, I like to use rubber bands otherwise the dried Lavender stems shrink and fall out of the harvested bundles. You will need to replace the rubber bands with raffia you can buy in craft shops or sometimes a florist will sell it. Hang these upside down for drying which will allow for air to reach all sides and to prevent the flower tops from curling over. You use an old coat hanger and clothespin several batches up for drying at once. Place your drying Lavender flowers in a cool dry spot, away from sunlight and check on their progress every few days. Also don't make the flower bundle too fat or air will have trouble reaching the middle. You want to dry Lavender blossoms on the inside too.

“We must secure the existence of our people and a future for white children, because the beauty of the white Aryan woman must not perish from this earth.” – David Eden Lane November 2, 1938 - May 28, 2007

Securing our existence in a corrupt world seems, at times, pointless or even so hard that we lose sight of the real reason why we must do so and what the real purpose is. We forget the fundamentals and think it is just about numbers. That is not so. Mate selection and teaching morals goes along with that. Multiculturalism is all around us. Everywhere we look it subliminally incorporated in everyday life. To teach our children to spot the signs and reject them is one of our duties as parents. Choosing a strong partner that can help with this task is very important. Producing elite offspring is our goal as members of the superior race. To go along with mate selection is genetic and work ethic selection. Cognitive function goes hand and hand with these qualities, as well. When choosing mates these should all be factors one notices, and should play vital roles.

Once we start to raise our families it is our duty as parents to train our children to work diligently at all projects they take on. Accepting tasks, completing and mastering skills are very important for their futures. We raise our children to be the best Fathers, Mothers, Husbands, and Wives they can possibly be. Providing for their households how they see fit, as to the way they were raised, will provide stability and also ensure their children will learn the qualities you have taught them.

Our children deserve a future in a country that does not shun them for being white. They deserve a chance to live free and have all the opportunities these other races have. These other races get college grants for being black, or Hispanic. Our people don't get any of that. We get discriminated against. We get told we have “WHITE PRIVILEGE”. Our children deserve to be treated fairly. When we try to teach our children pride, we get accused of being racist, well, that is fine. We should use the coined words as a guide line, if you will, so that we can have something to stand on to keep pushing forward to never give up and know that our children and their children, our future of PURE Beautiful White Aryan Children WILL be Safe and Secure in this world. Because, that is what we all are giving our lives to fight for.

Nothing to lose but everything to gain.

Over To You!

How do you implement Traditional Roles and Values in 2017 when 99% of the time women are now in the workplace?

Henri Bloxham: Several factors involved:

Firstly - all members of the family must agree to traditional roles. Without the commitment of the woman in the family it cannot be done. This alone is difficult due to the preconceptions instilled in our women Folk, by feminism, that all traditional roles demean women. This was the primary goal of feminism. The role of mother and "homemaker" is nearly reviled by a good portion of all women today and an unfortunately high percentage of Folkish women are as well affected to some degree.

Secondly - the financial requirements in today's society demand 2 wage earners in most families; aside from the upper middle class, but even then the families tend to overextend themselves financially and end up in debt; or with extremely high monthly expenses and so again two wage earners are necessary. Expenses must be reduced to the point that the family can survive with one wage earner. Homes must be paid off or sold and the equity used to purchase a less expensive home outright. All debt must be eliminated and we must transition to a life that embraces function over form. Focus must be on the utility of the item and not how attractive or trendy it is.

The biggest wastes of money today are either funding our enemies or bad for us - cable T.V.; each family having 4 cell phones with data; multiple new cars in the family, cigarettes, alcohol, recreational drugs, I Phones, vacations, eating out etc. . . if they cannot be afforded with one wage earner - they should be the first to go.

Thirdly - A return to an agrarian lifestyle - away from the cultural Marxism rampant in our society. This will give our daughters a chance to avoid the brainwashing that our generation and the last several have been subjected to. Otherwise - it's only going to forestall the inevitable.

We must divorce the system and society that is killing us along with all of the psychological baggage it has weighed us down with. This will likely be more difficult for the women Folk because most of the programming in our society is directed at them and they have for the most part been convinced that the very programming that is ending their race was created for their benefit (feminism has been portrayed as coming to the "rescue" of our women Folk - therefore for them to abandon it may be perceived by them as not in their best interests.)

I'd love to listen to the show discussing this and even call in if that would be welcome. However, I have no idea where to listen. This is a subject that must be resolved if we are to have any hope of surviving as a race; and having been raised by my father and currently a single father nearing 50 raising two sons alone; and one who has returned to an agrarian lifestyle and for the most part divorced myself from the system; I believe I can offer unique insight from a male perspective.

Over to You Continued:

Dani Grey: I spend 90% of my time at work not because I want too but because I have no choice. Traditional values fall upon all our folk but so many times women have to provide when their significant other and or child's father wont and vice versa. It's sad to see what people have become Vex Steele: I have to say I think step one is having a complete family unit. Mommy, daddy and baby all together as a unit. Not in separate homes and separate environments.

Stephen Landser: what's even tougher apparently the younger generation is literally pushing white sharia as an answer as well. Where is the focus on FAMILY? Women are needed MORE than ever in the movement yet we unable to or unwilling to accept and EMBRACE that, sadly the fence sitter's constitutionalist are figuring that out, women's numbers in groups such as the NRA are SOARING, so what's is our PROBLEM?

Tilly WAU: Short answer is you can't, we are no longer hunters & gatherers. In this day and age, women have to work and people have to work longer, so even if you are lucky enough to live around family, the good chance is that the grandparents themselves are still in the work force trying to make ends meet.

Sure you can compromise & sacrifice; such as not living in that big house, not living in the best area and not filling your life with worthless materialistic things and working shift work so one of you are always home with the children, but long gone are the days when women can stay, look after children & home and just the men go to work.

Lotta UK: I have been thinking a lot lately that things have gotten so insane with feminists, 126 genders and liberals in general that simply being of the same race, married and having children is cause for their hysteria. So that in itself is a wonderful start.

Evelyn WAU: I think its imperative first and foremost that we strive for traditionalism but also note that lots of things have changed for the nuclear family. I remember going on a tour to an old mining village and one day's pay covered a month's rent, now it's typically two weeks' wages to pay your rent, so that means more money needs to be coming into the household. I have had the privilege of both being a working wife and a stay at home wife, both suited me well and I always made sure my home was clean and my husband was fed when I worked, when I was a stay at home wife I done everything in the home, I took that as my responsibility so there was 99% of the time only home cooked meals made from scratch I took great pride in this, scones and cookies baked weekly, mending clothes not done great but done none the less, working on online projects etc.

The thing we must remember is tradition doesn't mean subservience, it's just not in my Keltic DNA to sit back and let another person make the rules and guidelines for the home, I think both wife and husband should run the household, even when I worked I still done most of the housework and that's fine by me, but for other women it's not, there are husbands who do all the cooking and that's awesome, I think people mistake tradition for archaic behaviours, I think it's important for your children to see Dad cook on a Saturday, to see Dad take the trash out, to see Dad thank their wife for dinner, to see their Mother enjoy her life at home or at work, to see home time as valuable time, home time should be spent on projects, outside going on nature walks, books, story time, cooking, sewing, camping etc. watching a family movie etc. Times change and thankfully so in some aspects, not so great in many others, you can be a working mother and still run a household on tradition and pride, you can still instil good life skills for your children. Remember that tradition comes in many forms, kids like different things, but we must remember that they are sponges that absorb a lot, whether you raise them with a partner or alone you are responsible for what they learn at a young age, you show them how they treat others, to show them how to share, you show them how to speak well, read well, to yearn for knowledge and to seek out the best in the world, there is a lot of chaos and darkness in this world, but there is also an equal amount of good and light, so show them that, a simple hour outside showing them trees, flowers, insects, climbing hills, chasing one another around outside, name that tree, collect fallen leaves and make a collage. Be the good, instill values and your own traditions, when you are older you will hear lots from them starting with, Remember when we used too.....
