Unity & Comradeship

White Genocide in South Africa

WAU cannot be a Mass-Organization, and thus it does not accept disciples, as do conventional movement groups. At this time in the Movements history, when the great task of redefining a Woman's role in the cause is posed; of reinventing the concept of "feminism" within the parameters of Race and Revolution, WAU can only be a group of equals, a staff of educators and disseminators, not hangers on, joiners, or pseudo – soldiers.

The issue is a matter of finding our peoples path toward a new revolutionary mind-set, and thus WAU cannot tolerate masses of reactionaries, semi-literate troublemakers, or infantile militants. The same persons who would have WAU accept racialist Role Players would commit us to erroneous positions. It is the nature of the hangers on; this movement has unfortunately thrived on for decades to demand slogans, to transform real issues into stupid dogmas from which they can derive their role and their pseudo – intellectual security.

Fractionalization is proof of this, how many groups constructed on mass organization principles, have produced other groups, often opposing each other? Even WAU has experienced this, with comrades demonstrating their "Superiority" not by maturely going on their own way, but by revolting against the very sisters who brought them along, it is through this despicable process that the movement has produced generations of self-appointed leaders, ever seeking new submissive disciples.

WAU intends to leave such people outside and fight those who want to transform our cause into a slogan; such people are extremely handicapped and uninteresting in their unity, compared with those who strive to be something rather than merely joining something. Those who, on the contrary, have a true feeling for the mission of WAU, and have glimpsed its direction in the world, are welcome to join because the work we talk about is to be found in our sisterhood and friendship, we find it together.

How like Kingdoms without justice are to robberies!

Even in our “enlightened” age when nations are called “democracies”, governments have become the great robberies. While “modern” governments did not start out as a confederacy of robbers, their devolution begins in “public service”: in politics, the judicial system and law enforcement, where the cunning and manipulative rise in positions of “authority”. New and inexperienced interns, lawyers and rookies witness a world of contradictions in service to government. While the majority go along convincing themselves that nothing is amiss. “This is just the way things are”. Men and women of conscience, those with a sense of godly justice, become disgusted and disillusioned. Unable to adjust to the daily compromise with corruption, greed and injustice many give up and move on to more honourable and productive lives, allowing the weak, the cowardly, the corrupt and the animals with villainous intentions to progress into positions of “authority”. Others struggle on hoping to see positive change, only to find themselves powerless to make it, losing sight of their hopes and dreams. The nation then begins to forget herself, and worse, she forgets her Father, God, the One who gave her life. She gives herself over to every vice, and makes herself a whore. Selling herself for flattery and baubles she gives away her children’s inheritance to every suitor, selling them into slavery she turns her estate over to her new bastard spawn, cretins incapable of knowing God or His Nature for they are not his children. Her original purpose forgotten, Justice has become evil and vice is praised. The nation is sold off as mere possessions to the world. Generations of wealth are squandered. Yet parasitic government survives in its impunity, propped up by the labors of wage-slaves and ordered about by the pimp named Plutocracy. So has Amerika become yet another Great Robbery.

Inverbrackie detention centre UPDATE

Well it has been over 18 months since I wrote my article on the opening of the Inverbrackie detention centre located in the picturesque Adelaide Hills. So I thought I would do an update on what has been happening since the centre opened on Saturday 18th December 2010.

- Within days of opening a group of 10 newly-arrived asylum seekers escaped from the low-security Inverbrackie Detention Centre by climbing over the fence to pick fruit. A local woman was driving down Woodside-Nairne Rd when she saw the group climbing over the fence near the northern side of the detention centre and notified security.
- Within 6 months the detention centre racked up a bill of nearly $27 million. The centre was originally slated to cost $10 million to convert from former Defence housing, but has proven significantly more expensive to run.
- Ambulances have been called out 27 times, attending to five births, critical accidents, serious assaults and self-harm incidents. Twenty-two accidents were designated "critical", and there were eight serious assaults and three cases of self-inflicted injury.
- Earlier this year hard-pressed staff had to resort to a "Code Black" call for emergency assistance, after a fight erupted among female residents. Other incidents have included several where staff members have been assaulted and one in which a child was disciplined after hitting a bus driver with a piece of wire. An incident occurred where a man was injured when he deliberately smashed his head through a plate-glass window.
- Police are being called to disturbances at the detention centre because the Federal Government cannot guarantee adequate security.

• SA Police Assistant Commissioner Bronwyn Killmier told a federal parliamentary inquiry that 13 "incidents" had been reported at the centre in the past year, including three child protection matters.

• Centre operator Serco is reviewing security procedures after a couple briefly breached the facility's perimeter by walking out of the front gate while pushing a baby in a stroller.

• And lastly a so called Afghan refugee, Ewaz Ali Rezaie has recently been arrested as a central figure in an International People smuggling syndicate, he had ready access to false passports and large amounts of cash on hand.

Now this is only what is reported via the media, so it only makes you wonder what more has gone on behind closed doors that we, the public are not privy too.

White Genocide in South Africa

Last September the International Alliance to End Genocide upgraded South Africa on their genocide watch list. On their eight stage formula, they moved South Africa from a five to a six. Level five is "polarization" and level six is "preparation." The international human rights organizations stated "now we have evidence of organized incitement to violence against white people."

Several other human rights groups and numerous members of the European Parliament have also declared that the murder of whites in South Africa is racially motivated genocide. White farmers living in South Africa have the highest murder rate of any people in the world, and that includes all current war zones.

Since the African National Congress (ANC) took power, at least 68,000 White South Africans have been murdered with over 4,000 of these being Boers and their family members. Thousands more have been attacked. However the actual number is probably much higher as South African record keeping has severely deteriorated under the ANC. To learn more, visit the Online South African Genocide Museum.

So why is it that our Media do not report this? Why are our Politicians, who love to intervene on behalf of various populations of the world, turning a noticeable blind eye to the White Genocide in South Africa? Because it is Whites being murdered, that is why.

The 9th Meeting of women to talk about media manipulation...

In early October took place the 9th Meeting of women organized as usual by the women's organization WAU Argentina.

The theme this time was to come together and talk about media manipulation, especially manipulation exerted in its most popular way through TV and Internet.

Besides emphasizing the importance in our lives these means of (des) information, several examples were not only our daily lives but also the television fraud: Teleton. Take for example the Chilean Teleton where we discussed how a television program can manipulate the audience to give out their money to this so called cause "altruistic" that they the audience barely know anything about the cause, but are willing to give away their money.

We also discussed one of the theories of American linguist Noam Chomsky who discusses the strategies of media manipulation, and its relationship with politics. We then closed our meeting with a discussion about stickers designed for this topic to be pasted in public and thus bring closure to the activity.

Censorship:

When Freedom of Speech is not for Everybody

In this age of democracy and human rights, it seems that such privileges are not available to everybody. The widespread use of social networks has shown that the taboo issues remain the same: racism, National Socialism, Fascism, segregation...and perhaps the most controversial word of the last 200 years: race. Just mentioning this word generates discussions and causes rejection among the general public.

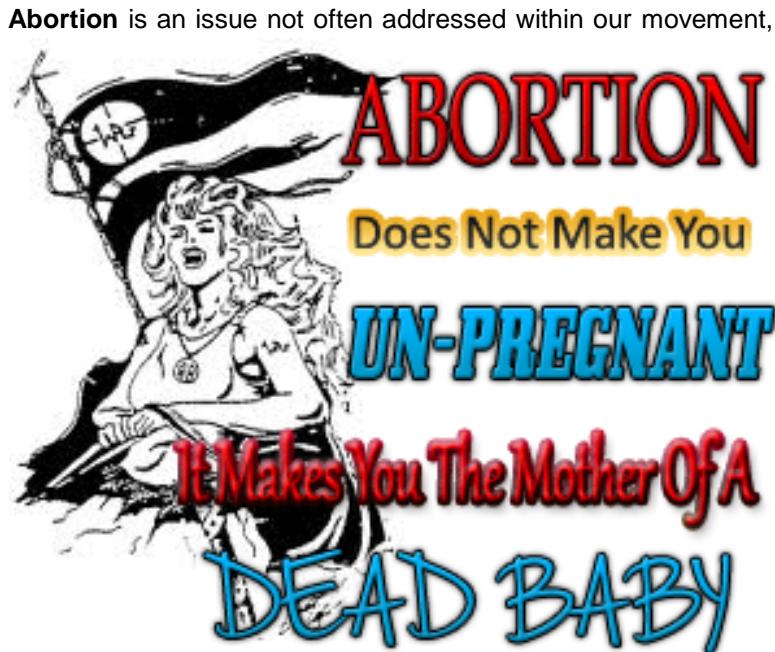

This takes us to the main point of this humble article: the censorship exerted in social networks on those of us who have chosen to listen to the call of our blood and stand up for our legacy and traditions. As soon as you upload a controversial picture or post a politically incorrect comment, you get a very polite warning of the social network in question (the most obvious example being Facebook, and more recently, I have been banned from a far less known social network, World Truth). Sometimes, there is not even a warning: the "offender's" account is blocked and deleted and that's the end of the story. They claim that it is possible to contact them if you feel your profile has been unfairly disabled, but the truth is that the answer never comes. And this may happen countless times until you just give up; you grow tired of creating a new account every week. Even worse, sometimes you don't even need to have uploaded an offensive picture or comment to be banned, the Big Brother doesn't even let us exercise our freedom of speech, it would be a kind of "preventive censorship"...you haven't said anything wrong yet, but you might, therefore, we ban you in advance. Apparently, telling the truth offends certain people....

Some people could say "hey, it's a social network, it isn't such a big deal", which is basically true, but the point is that this shows something that certainly is a big deal: the censorship on people who believe in a "forbidden" ideology, an ideology rejected by the public at large. This is censorship in a means of communication; this means that the so called freedom of expression turns out to be not so "free". In the name of egalitarianism, tolerance and democracy, some people's voices are silenced and the revision of historical fact is forbidden because the inconvenient truth may see the light...

The goal of this strategy is quite evident in the eyes of any person without having to be very bright: they want to silence us, isolate us and, I don't want to be a drama queen but, ultimately, annihilate us. However, such a strategy has a strengthening effect on us, rather than discouraging us. The reasoning is simple: if they try so hard to silence us, there must be some truth in our words and, in the end, the truth always prevails.

As we can see, censorship is alive and kicking in the social networks. This type of censorship isn't new but it dates back to the pathetic "de-nazification" processes that took place in Germany after their defeat in the World War 2. The intention to wipe out National socialist ideas is still present; it has just been adapted to fit the new media and technology. WAU Argentina

Abortion is MURDER!

In order to secure some sort of future for our folk we need to populate our lands with our own kind. By deciding to deal with this issue we hope to open the eyes of those not aware of the reality of abortion, we will enclose abortion images – stories – poetry and much more, this part of our site will be updated on a regular basis, and yes we know the images are graphic but the murdering of the unborn isn't pretty.

WAU

In 2009 there were almost 190,000 abortions in Britain. There were just over 400 babies adopted.

Great Britain leads as the abortion capital of Europe, overtaking France.

Studies show that at least 50 babies survive abortion every year in the UK and they are simply left to die...

Approximately 60 percent of girls under the age of 16 and 48 percent of girls under 18 who become pregnant choose to end their pregnancies through abortion, my mother had me at the age of 17, my 7 nieces and nephews were all born to young mothers who have raised them well...

The Abortion industry makes more than £60 million a year from abortion in the UK alone.

In the USA did you know that less than 1 percent of abortions occur because of rape or incest.

Planned Parenthood receives over $363 million annually in government grants, which means your tax dollars are funding the deaths of unborn children.

We read horrifying statistics that were reported in the Daily Mail on March 31st 08' that said that over 1, 3000 women have had at least five abortions each. Almost 950 of those having a termination had already had four. Almost 200 had already had five, 110 had had six before - and 54 seven or more.

I cannot actually ever recall coming across pro-life / anti-abortion facts and information on any racially based website. Most use the reason "but what about non - whites who have abortions etc.? All I have to say is " Why would I as a white racialist even care what non- whites get up too, they are not my priority or even my concern, my concern is focused on the amount of young white women murdering / aborting white babies at an average of 2000 per day in the USA.

Our homelands are being flooded by non-whites who seem to always arrive in our countries pregnant, and continue to breed on a constant basis, I'm not saying we should follow that path, but more often than not white families are choosing to abort children rather than keep them, mainly because it wasn't a convenient time to be pregnant or their jobs are way too important, those are the choices that make or break a race of people

I Cried Tears for Dresden

February 13, 1997

Though I never knew them, though they died months before I was born, I cannot help but to still feel the pain of those innocent people of Dresden who suffered so unjustly, unfairly, and totally without fault February 13, 1945. They make me think of abused children suffering for something that they do not understand. Abused children in a small way share with those now departed souls of Dresden the total unjustness of this world. Innocent people would not in a fair world, a decent world, be made to suffer.

They died this night. So many of them. Bombs raining down upon their heads like manna from hell -the heads of defenceless women and children for the most part. Babies in their cribs. Sobbing children in their mother's arms. Little girls without blemish, little boys full of anticipation at the excitement life promised them. The girls became blemished heaps of burnt flesh. The promise was broken by life to the boys. There would be no future for them.

Even now, across time, distance, culture, language, and ocean, I hear their cries. Ten thousand per second raising their helpless, tortured voices for mercy. No mercy. No relief. Only painful death from planes with United States written on them.

Why did my father's generation do this? How could they kill all these people - then not know about it?

My father a decorated, battle field commissioned, combat hardened infantry veteran of Roosevelt's army, told me as I lay at his feet as a small child listening that "Hitler was bad but the German people were good." The Germans were "very smart" they just had a bad leader he said. He was proud of his role as a soldier in defeating Germany. And if soldiers are without responsibilities for their role in history then he had more right than many to be proud of his many decorations.

Then in 1984 after discovering the horrible truth about Dresden I spoke to my father about it. I told him more people were killed there in a single night of fire and bombing than in England during the entire war. He said "that is a lie." He refused to believe me. I stressed to him that they were innocent people. He became angry with me. I asked him why they were killed. His anger boiled over and he said I was believing Nazi propaganda. I said to him "there are no Nazi's daddy you killed them all, there are only people who study history" while pulling an Encyclopedia Americana from the shelf. The encyclopedia while only admitting to a numerical fraction of the dead at Dresden was yet sufficient to exceed England's total bombing dead.

"These were refugees fleeing the communists" I said, becoming angry myself. "Why did Roosevelt order it done?" I demanded of him.

He read it and became silent. He read it again while running his fingers along the words carefully touching the numbers as if to make sure they were there and real. It then dawned on me. He did not know! He had lived through this time and because of a constant flood of propaganda from America's news media this horrible war crime and others like it had been kept from him.

I could see this troubled him, for it was from him that I acquired the proclivity of taking up the fight for the down trodden, those abused unfairly. He was a kind man and would have never knowingly participated in such cruelty. I left for home then feeling sorry for Dad. I left him to think in peace. My anger at his being a part of those who did this horrible thing abated.

I swear I will not forget the crime against innocent people at Dresden. I will not forget who is responsible. I will not forget! I am but one small life. One dim light in a world covered with the darkness of cruel machinations by evil men. But this little light of mine, I will let it shine! For only by doing so do I serve my reason for existence, for life, for eternity.

I read as a young person that "all that is necessary for evil to triumph is for good men to do nothing." Those words became a part of my soul, my life. Love is put to the test when one takes on the suffering of others - when one becomes a voice against evil for those who have none, a target of abuse for doing nothing but standing for justice.

There is no reward save knowing you have done that which is right. And there is hope. Hope that others will make the light that truth is a part of their life, their existence, so that together we become a bright ray for the future. A light unto the feet of all our fellow men who stumble.

In distant Dresden park they lie in their graves now. Rest my unknown friends, you downtrodden and despised of this world. Though we could not speak the same language if we stood before each other, though I never knew your names, and while your faces I can only imagine, you are my departed loved ones. My heart beats for yours. My mind remembers for yours. My tears for yours...

Interview with Youngland

The following Interview is with Kenn, one of the founding members and the lead vocalist from Youngland following their recent visit to Australia where they played the Hammered Music Festival.

Hi Ken could you give our readers a brief history of Youngland, how it all got started, when it started etc?

In the 90's I was playing in a "mainstream" band called Knockout. I had been listening to Skrewdriver and we learned and played two of their songs at our gigs. (I Don't Like You and Pennies From Heaven.) Nobody knew that those songs were Skrewdriver songs and they were always a big hit when we played them live. I met Scott, who has been my drummer since the beginning, when he started to show up at the shows. He talked to me about why we were playing those songs and we talked politics a little. I remember telling him that I thought it was great he was going to our shows but I asked if he could keep the "Skrewdriver thing" on the down-low. He said "no problem". When Knockout ended I called Scott and we started Youngland the next day. Our first practice was in the summer of 1998.

What inspired you to name the band Youngland? I wanted something that showed a little pride in my own country and our rich history. Along with Australia, we are also a very young nation. "Young Land" seemed to work for everyone and anyone else that has started a band and had to think of names knows that it is not an easy task. Think of a name that you think would be a good band name then Google it and I guarantee that the name is already in use, haha! Also, I wanted a name that wasn't over the top or too aggressive since our music really isn't Hatecore.

Your style of music is very hard to describe, it has a sort of cow-punk, rockabilly sound to it, and how would you describe it? Did any bands influence you in this style of music?

All the songs I write are just influences from the bands that have played since I was a kid. In 1981 I went to my first gig at a local bar that allowed all ages. We went to see a band called "The Kingbees" and I was hooked on going to shows. My earliest musical influence was rock-a-billy then it went to punk rock then too RAC. To this day I still like all the music I was into as a kid. But what influenced me most were the local bands that played Orange County from the 80's to 2000. At that time, you could go out every night of the week and catch a "good" band at any of the numerous bars around town. Even the opening bands were often really good. I was playing in different bands through those years and got to play with a lot of great bands like Green Day, Offspring, Social Distortion, Sublime, Agent Orange, and many other GREAT bands that never made it. Of course those famous bands we played with were not famous at the time we played with them. We were all friends and all playing the same routine bars together.

But when we hit the stage and put on a show, that influence comes directly from my all-time favourite Orange County band called "The Cadillac Tramps". There show was lively but with a lot of groove. We went to EVERY show they played. They had their own style and it worked greatly for them on stage. It is hard to describe but they weren't doing back flips or anything like that, they were just "cool". That is what I want people to walk away with from our shows.

What is the current line up and has it changed much over the years?

Our Current line-up is...

Kenn - Vocals, Rhythm Guitar

Scott - Drums, Backing Vocals

Krystian - Bass, Backing Vocals

Troy - Rhythm and Lead Guitar, Backing Vocals

This is the BEST line up of musicians that I have had to date. We are putting out a split CD from "Strong Survive" records and should be out this summer, or in Australia it will be winter haha. The other people that have funnelled through the band are...

Martin - singer for Extreme Hatered

Wade - bass player for Definite Hate

Paul - singer of "Plunder and Pillage"

Lee - singer of Young Blood and Matt who is a long-time friend of Scott and mines.

Now that I look at it, they have all been bass players. Matt played guitar for the majority of the band but had to leave but on good terms. We are still friends with all the guys who pass through Youngland and I learned a lot with each and every one of them.

What other bands have you guys played in?

The bands I have played in are "The Ballistics" "Lucky 13" "Knockout" and "Aggressive Force". Scott has played in "Extreme Hatred" "Aggressive Force" "Hate Crime" "JFK" "Youngblood" "Straight Jacket Society" and others...everyone needs a good drummer, haha! Troy has played in a famous Psycho-Billy band and other mainstream bands and Krystian played in a punk rock band that toured with "Gutter Mouth" (leftist Shit band, maybe one day I'll tell you the story of how the singer showed up to a party at my house and almost got the shit kicked out of him by Scott and Brian Sawyer, the singer of Aggressive Force. Instead, he just got socked in the face, knocked to the ground and ran off, hehe. He deserved it though; He turned his whole crowd on a young skinhead by saying that they aren't going to play another song until that "skinhead" is taken care of. The kid wound up getting stabbed.) Krystian is now working on another great mainstream project outside of Youngland that sounds like stuff you would hear on the radio.

I hear you are recording for a new cd, it has been quite a while since you have brought out a new release, can you tell us a bit about this new cd?

As I write this interview we are finishing up the split CD with PWA from Poland. I go into the studio tonight to mix the songs and send them out to be pressed. We realize that it has been way too long since we have recorded. When Panzerfaust ended, it kind of took the fire away from us. And during this time we have all started families and have careers that take up a lot more of our time. During our first recordings, none of us had families and I would just come home from work, grab some beer and sit down with my guitar, a pencil and paper and play all night long. We now understand that that is the formula for writing good music so for this next record I'll be making more trips to the store for beer...haha.

The plan that we have come up with for our new CD is to look back at our other recordings and see what we did right and what we did wrong. It is no secret that our first CD was the best. So we are going to stick to the formula that worked for that recording. The other recordings were "shitty" and recorded horribly. Also the lead guitars on those CD's were as weak as a lean-to in a hurricane. The lead guitar problem has been solved with Troy playing with us as you will see on this split CD. We now have a great place to record and can have it "our way" without any friction from the engineer or producer.

Youngland has been a very popular band over the years, what other bands have you played with and have you played in other countries and are there any countries that you would really like to play in?

Oh wow...let me try to remember...We have played with almost all of the American RAC bands that are still playing like Bound For Glory, Max Resist, Bully Boys, Aggravated Assault, Blue Eyes Devils, Intimidation One and Definite Hate to name a few and of course all of the Orange County bands like Extreme Hatred, Final War, Aggressive Force, White Knuckle Driver and Hate Crime. As well as a lot of European bands, in England we played with Brutal Attack, White Law, Legion of St. George, we played in Finland with Mistreat as well as playing in France, Belgium, Italy and several times in Germany. I would love to play in Spain and also Greece since they have just elected a Nation Socialist to their government. I'd also like to play some obscure places where there are NS movements but the people are other than white. There are still NS groups in Japan and I want to play there...I mean can you imagine playing "Thank God I'm a White Boy" to a crowd of Japs all singing along? What a riot!

You have just recently played in Australia, can you tell us a bit about your experience there, what you thought of it and would you like to return?

From the time I was about 13 till the time I was 26 years old, I surfed EVERY day! Then I blew out two disks in my back and also went to college so that limited my surfing big time. I still surf and I will be this weekend and every time I get a chance. I say this because I really fell in love with Australia from watching videos of the surfers and the places to surf there. It has always been a dream to visit you guys and I would have never thought that I would make it over there, let alone play my music in front of many people and have such a warm welcome by so many friendly people that I met and became friends with. It was also nice to finally meet Shannon from Ravenous because I have been talking to him off and on since the first week that Youngland started.

I'd also like to say how much Australia reminded me of Orange County California. I just had a feeling of being at home! Would we return??? HA, call the airlines tonight and we'll be on it!!! Although there has been a bit of talk that we may come back next year but...SSSHHHHH, don't tell anyone 😊

What keeps you determined to carry on with Youngland, to write the music and continue doing the shows?

Firstly, I love music and I love the kind of music we play. There seems to always be something happening, no matter how small, that keeps us going. I would have to say that Scott, my drummer, has been the biggest motivator in keeping Youngland alive. Some say that they thought Youngland had quit, I can understand that, but yet during the whole time we weren't putting out CD's, we were still practicing and writing new songs and having fun doing it. The band has stand constant and energetic since the first practice, there was just a time that there was nothing being recorded. We have been through a lot of people that have come in and out of the band and I would say THAT is our biggest discouragement. It takes so much time to find and teach another person how to play all the songs in our set list, other songs that we may throw out there and also have the same attitude, stage presence and ability. But don't worry, Scott and I will go through it again and again if we have to. BUT, right now I believe that the current members of Youngland are the most talented, entertaining and best bunch of guys we've had yet. I REALLY want to keep these guys and I think it will work out because the bass player is my nephew (so he's not going anywhere) and Troy is a long time personal friend that is having a blast playing and traveling with us!

A lot of Younglands songs talk about Unity, do you feel that there is much Unity in this movement and if not do you think we will ever be able to achieve it?

I do enjoy the diversity we have amongst all the different groups we have and everyone seems to get along these days. When we first started there were some groups that had feuds and wouldn't talk to each other. There were times when we would play a concert for one group and another local group would refuse to have us play for them because they were under the impression that we were connected and were involved with that group, like we took sides against them. That was a difficult time because we have always stated since day one that we will play for ANY group that is out there defending our culture! And that is what we care about. The rivalries come and go and we don't get involved with the personal politics of any group. I think that is best handled by the men and women who are involved, not some band from California, hehe! With all the members coming in and out of the band, none of the guys have every joined any group and we remain that way today. Not joining up allows us to support any and all groups that would have us play. We will hear the rumours from this group to that group or this guys is bad and so on, but when Youngland comes to town, it seems everyone gets along and has a good time and EVERYONE that we have met through the years have always been the coolest people I've ever met and become lifelong friends!

In America do you have much trouble from the media, Antifa or police when holding a show?

There was a militant Jew out here in Southern California names Irv Rueben who would scrape up the dregs of society and march out in front of the clubs we played at. But as soon as all the news vans and cameras left, they would leave too. So no there has been not much trouble between them and us. We haven't had many shows lately and the ones we do have been kept a pretty good secret. We usually have them about 30 miles south of town and it is just too far for them to drag there sorry asses to. By the way, that Irv Rueben guy went to jail about 7-8 years ago for being involved with some sort of conspiracy plot to blow up a building. Just before his trial the cops were escorting him up a flight of stairs and at about the 10th floor he decided to jump and commit suicide...he brilliantly succeeded!

The hardest part of having a show is getting the club owner to agree to let us play. When the cops find out about the show they usually call the club owner and threaten to take his alcohol license away. Not many clubs will risk the loss of their license, but some will get furious that the cops are threatening them and hold the concert just to tell the cops "Fuck You!"

Any closing comments or thoughts you would like to share with our readers?

Like I said, coming out to Australia was a dream of mine for as long as I can remember and I would like to thank ALL of the people that made it happen, from the bottom of my heart! Stay strong and determined my friends, success and victory are just around the corner.

Thank you Kenn for taking the time to do this Interview with us, I would like to say it was a pleasure meeting all you guys while you were here in Australia and thank you for putting on the most kick arse performance I have ever seen.

A Woman's Call to Duty

I have seen many girls come and go, they all had one thing in common: sexual intensions. They all had claimed to have been White Power, however as soon as their man has had enough, they'd run. They'd never stay. No loyalty to the cause.

I know I am young, but it still is very disappointing, as there is not-one girl of my age that has had the heart and guts to stand for what I do and be heard. I know we have grown up in a time where multiculturalism and excessive sexuality is praised, but it shouldn't be this hard to find people who believe in sticking to your own race.

I do not doubt that when I was first introduced to the nationalist scene that many thought I would not be here in a year or so time, because my boyfriend had introduced me to the movement. That is the problem these days.

In the four years that I have been in the movement I have seen many young girls – who I tried to become close to – move on as if the only thing they cared about was their sexual fetish and not the movement. What these girls do not understand is that we are going to be the future of the white power movement. Sleeping around is just giving us a bad name. We need to show that in the next twenty or so years, what the women, generations before us have worked so hard to fight for. It should not be in vain.

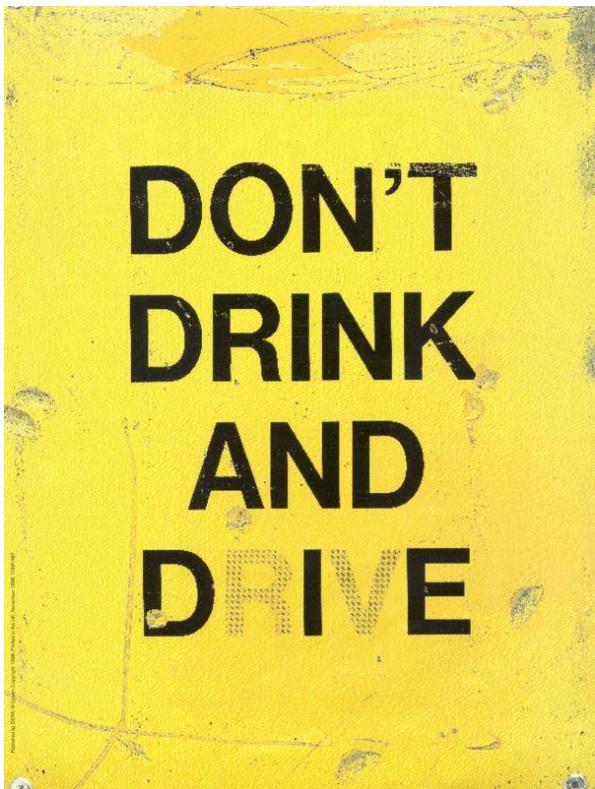

Many people have often accused me of being nasty and hateful towards new girls in the movement. However I see it as me trying to protect what my sisters and brothers have worked so hard for. The truth is I am so much different to most girls, which I hate. I can put my hand up and want something to do with my race, to become a part of WAU. I am young, but I know what my race means. I know there is a future for our race. All the friends I have made I did by myself, not for my partner. He may have introduced me but I am the one who made the effort to stay.

The fundraising and help I have offered was not forced upon me, nor was it a way to make my boyfriend love me more. I did it all by myself. If we were to break up, I would only leave a part of my heart. Not the part which makes me want to secure the white-race. I'm not afraid to say that. It shouldn't be so hard, but it is. I want you all to know that even though I find it hard, I never give in because once I put my heart into something, I never back down – which all new girls should feel.

It is an incredible feeling when you hear that your donations to our POW's are giving them hope. Making them smile. You will never be able to truly understand the feeling when you know you have complete trust and loyalty from all our sisters and brothers.

The aim of this plea is to target all the girls out there who do favour White Power. To all the young girls out there reading this, don't let me be the only one who is going to grow up fighting. Prove there are still decent girls out there who put their morals and beliefs before anything else.

Alcohol Abuse

I am constantly seeing & hearing people brag about how drunk they've got or how much they've drunk like it's something to be proud of, well I have news for you Abusing Alcohol is nothing to be proud of. Then you get the people that encourage this behaviour in others, when, maybe we as their friends, brothers and sisters should be doing everything we can to help them with this problem & actually be telling them to pull their heads in. Being a drunk is no better than being a drug addict.

As White Nationalists who supposedly strive to be better than others, this behaviour should not be tolerated, and I personally find it appalling that not only is it happening but it is being encouraged. Those that have been involved in the movement for a long time and who are looked up to, should be acting as an example to the youngsters/new comers.

Abusing any drug including Alcohol will not only harm the body but also that person's spirit. While drinking may be a part of our heritage/culture, Alcoholism is a cultural disease. There is nothing wrong with using alcohol but please try not to abuse it, drinking yourself into a stupor is not something that should ever be a regular habit. The easiest target is one that's hammered. Remember self-discipline is a mark of higher man.

Alcohol abuse is characterized by the uncontrolled consumption and need for it even though the person who is abusing it knows that it is negatively impacting his/her life in many ways. It is important to be able to spot the warning signs of alcoholism so you will be able to help a person who is going down the road of alcoholism. When you start seeing a person introduce alcohol into more of their activities then this may be a warning sign that they could be now or may become an alcoholic.

Drinking is woven into the fabric of many societies—sharing a bottle of wine over a meal, going out for drinks with friends, celebrating special occasions with champagne. But because alcohol is such a common, popular element in many activities, it can be hard to see when your drinking has crossed the line from moderate or social use to problem drinking.

If you consume alcohol simply to feel good, or to avoid feeling bad, your drinking could become problematic. Alcoholism and alcohol abuse can sneak up on you, so it's important to be aware of the warning signs and take steps to cut back if you recognize them. Understanding the problem is the first step to overcoming it.

Since drinking is so common in many cultures, especially the Skinhead culture, and the effects vary so widely from person to person, it's not always easy to figure out where the line is between social drinking and problem drinking. The bottom line is how alcohol affects you. If your drinking is causing problems in your life, you have a drinking problem.

Common signs and symptoms of alcohol abuse include:

- Repeatedly neglecting your responsibilities at home, work, or school because of your drinking. For example; performing poorly at work, or unable to hold a job, flunking classes, neglecting your kids, or skipping out on commitments because you're hung over.

- Using alcohol in situations where it's physically dangerous, such as drinking and driving, operating machinery while intoxicated, or mixing alcohol with prescription medication against doctor's orders.

- Experiencing repeated legal problems on account of your drinking. For example; getting arrested for driving under the influence or for drunk and disorderly conduct.

- Continuing to drink even though your alcohol use is causing problems in your relationships. Getting drunk with your buddies, for example, even though you know your wife will be very upset, or fighting with your family because they dislike how you act when you drink. Lying to others or hiding your drinking habits. Having friends or family members who are worried about your drinking.

- Drinking as a way to relax or de-stress. Many drinking problems start when people use alcohol to self-soothe and relieve stress. Getting drunk after every stressful day, for example, or reaching for a bottle every time you have an argument with your spouse or boss.

- Blacking Out. Or forgetting what you did while you were drinking.

- If you find yourself sitting at home by yourself & getting hammered then yes I say you have a problem. Denial is one of the biggest obstacles to getting help for alcohol abuse and alcoholism. The desire to drink is so strong that the mind finds many ways to rationalize drinking, even when the consequences are obvious. By keeping you from looking honestly at your behaviour and its negative effects, denial also exacerbates alcohol-related problems with work, finances, and relationships.

If you're ready to admit you have a drinking problem, you've already taken the first step. It takes tremendous strength and courage to face alcohol abuse and alcoholism head on. Reaching out for support is the second step.

You cannot force someone you love to stop abusing alcohol. As much as you may want to, and as hard as it is to watch, you cannot make someone stop drinking. The choice is up to them.

Alcohol acts like an anesthetic dulling areas of the brain that enable people to make sensible decisions, resulting in poor judgement. Drinking slows reflexes and hinders coordination.

Drinking may cause drowsiness, increasing the chances for a traffic crash.

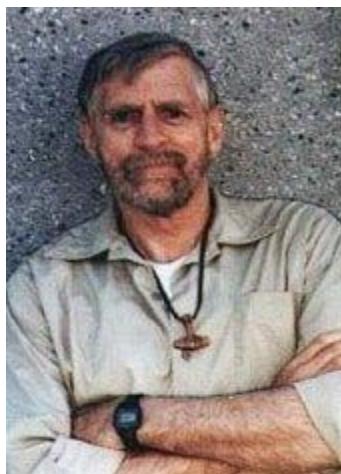

Alcohol can cause double or multiple vision and reduces side vision.

Focus 14 - No 608

In the 88 Precepts the 58th reads: "Tyrannies teach what to think. Free men learn how to think." As our White race now goes over the edge of the abyss into possible extinction, it is imperative that if there is any chance of saving our kind we had better learn not only how to think, but how to do so with inspiration and logic.

But first, as always, let me point out the realities of our situation, so that you will know that we must now speak with the eloquence of emergency and act with the fanaticism of desperation. The life of a race is in the wombs of its women. Today, about 2% of the earth's population is White female of child-bearing age or younger. In other places I have detailed how this came about, so I will not repeat it here. The occupation governments of America and the other once-White countries deny us not only White nations, but White schools, White organizations, White neighbourhoods and everything necessary for our survival as a biological and cultural entity. It is deliberate, malicious genocide.

An example of their deceitful words is the term "minorities" for the collared world, while we approach extinction.

We have watched as American police and military powers were used to destroy us ever since at least the Civil War. Examples are the 101st Airborne using bayonets on young, White girls to integrate the schools of Dixie. Our enemies knew full well that the inevitable result of racial integration is a percentage of interracial mating's each year, leading to the death of our race, as has happened in India, Persia, Carthage and many other places in the past. This time it is happening worldwide. Then, we remember how mounted Boston police under Federal edicts beat the White mothers of South Boston into bloody submission when they protested the integration and destruction of their neighbourhood schools. Translate: "The murder of their race". Then, there was the destruction as a racial state of our ancient and sacred European homeland by American forces. This, after the Germanic people attempted to perform their traditional duty as defenders of the race, just as they did against the North African Moors and the hordes of Genghis Khan. Were it not for the Germanic peoples of our race, the beauty of our women and the Western civilization we enjoy would have been aborted long ago.

Today we have the rewriting of history to credit the deeds of our ancestors to the collared races, the never-ending promotion of mixing between the last White women and collared males, the murder and false imprisonment of White people who resist the judeo-american, judeo-christian murder of our race. The murders of Bob Mathews, Kathy Ainsworth, Gordon Kahl, Arthur Kirk, the Weavers and others are further evidence that the Zionist occupation government will stop at nothing to accomplish the extermination of the White race. I could continue almost without end detailing the genocidal intent and practices of America, but if the preceding is not sufficient evidence, then you are beyond reason or logic.

So, what has this to do with learning how to think instead of what to think? Well, it does not take a genius or rocket scientist to learn from history. Our masters taught the French, the Russians, the English, the Spanish, the Italians and others for thousands of years that the country or political system they were born in or lived in was superior. So, by the hundreds of millions we have slaughtered each other in senseless wars. Earlier we had Persians, Greeks, Romans, Goths and others doing the same thing. Although not of our race, we see Sunni and Shiite Moslems butchering each other simply because they were reared to believe a particular religious tenant.

Religious belief has been the single biggest weapon against our kind, too. More people have been murdered, tortured and destroyed in the name of Jesus than any other cause in all history, including the artificial war between the two Jewish concepts called capitalism and communism. In the 30 Years War alone over one third of Western Europe slaughtered each other over whether Jesus was Protestant or Catholic. It still goes on in Ireland today. Of course, "The propaganda of the Victors becomes the history of the Vanquished", so we never hear of all the millions the church murdered and tortured in its 1000 year war to destroy the White man's native and organic religion of Wotan/Woden/Odin. How many know that Charlemagne, the Holy Roman Emperor, called a treaty meeting of 5000 Wotanist Saxon leaders from central Europe in 787 ce? As was the custom among Wotanists, arms were not carried into treaty conferences. The treacherous Charlemagne then surrounded the Saxons with a Christian army and beheaded them in front of an audience of church dignitaries. By such methods a new belief was forced on Europe. In effect, the Jews hired the Roman Empire to murder anyone in Europe who would not accept a new religion with Jews as "God's Chosen People." The White world has been collectively insane ever since.

Oh, I know that those with emotional or financial investments in the existing religious and political power systems will attack what I tell you with their versions of history. I have shown in my books how to verify truth in historical claims. One concept is to look for who benefits? No one but Jews can possibly benefit from a religion in which Jews are called "God's Chosen People." Yes, I know the propaganda says the church persecuted the Jews. The fable of persecution is central to Jewish power. Indeed, the alleged Holocaust is the religion of Jews. Torquemada, the sadistic butcher of the Inquisition, was a Jew. Many popes, including the current Polish pope, were Jews.

The "signs" are there, but you must learn how to think. Look at the Great Seal of the United States. I think both sides of the seal are on a dollar bill. You will see the Star of David over the head of the eagle, just as it appears on the Israeli flag. And you will see the All Seeing Eye of Judah over the pyramid. In the book "Mystery Religions and the Seven Seals" I showed how to decode the Jewish cabalism in the forming of both America and the Judeo-Christian religion.

We Must Secure the Existence of
Our People And A
Future for White Children.
— 14 WORDS

You see, my friends, if you are reared to believe that God should be called Thor and that thunder is his war wagon in the sky, then you will believe that fable unto death. Once you might have been reared to believe that God was called Zeus for the top of Mount Olympus. With enough torture and murder our people were taught that God was a Jew, born of a virgin, who raised himself from the dead. Undoubtedly, our people will believe that the cow jumped over the moon if indoctrinated early enough in life. Self-evident laws of nature are ignored, even denied, when belief controls the mind.

Political indoctrination is no different. Wave a flag and announce that it stands for liberty and our people will mindlessly kill each other by the millions. Does "forced bussing" sound like liberty? Does the murder of our race sound like liberty? Do America's never-ending wars from Dixie, to Italy and Germany, to Korea, to Vietnam, to Panama, to Iraq and dozens of lesser wars and occupations sound like liberty?

It is centuries past time that we learned how to think. Perhaps one fourth of the children in America at this time are White and our women are leaving us by the droves under the prodding of Judeo-Christianity and the Jewish media. Over a decade ago I told you that the day was coming that America's police and military powers would come to murder the last true White men and carry the last true White women and children off for integration and sport. I told you that both sides in this final death of our race would be singing "God bless America," waving the Red, White and Blue, because you continue to worship your executioner's institutions.

Well, you have seen the Federal execution of the Weavers. You know that the directors of both the FBI and the CIA are Jews. You know that the director of America's latest foreign atrocity called Operation Desert Slaughter was a Yiddish speaking Negro named Colin Powell. Both Clinton appointees to the Supremely Obscene Court are Jews. You know that the director of the Federal Reserve board is a Jew named Alan Greenspan. You know that they own and control every power point of industry, finance, media, religion, politics and law in the once-White nations. You know you can't vote out the majority, and as Tom Metzger stated, "If voting changed anything, it would be outlawed." You know our kind will very soon be an extinct species if we do not soon learn how to think and act appropriately. We can no longer worship or support our executioner's institutions. We must no longer allow ourselves to be controlled by buzzwords or unsubstantiated belief. We must look at central Africa and at our ancient European homeland and decide what the future shall be. We must look at the beauty of our women and decide if their images should continue to exist on earth. We must decide if White children shall have a place in the sun. All else is irrelevant at this time.

I remain yours for the 14 Words, "We must secure the existence of our people and a future for White children." David Lane

Quotes

"White Man, let us stand together to secure the survival of your people and my people, for they are one and the same - they are our beloved, miraculous, wonderful, blessed and masterful white race!"

A leopard doesn't change his spots just because you bring him in from the jungle and try to housebreak him and turn him into a pet. He may learn to sheathe his claws in order to beg a few scraps off the dinner table, and you may teach him to be a beast of burden, but it doesn't pay to forget that he'll always be what he was born: a wild animal.

Being prepared to die is one of the great secrets of living.

We must make it an imperative duty of our government to protect the gifts which Nature has bestowed on America and to insure the maintenance of a clean, healthy, wholesome environment for our people.

Evolution shows that in the long run, if the superior mixes with the inferior, the product is halfway between, and inferior to what you started with in the original superior group - in other words, mongrelized.

Hitler produced a local "lab experiment"; he provided me with an ideology in the same way that Marx provided one for Lenin. My task is to turn this ideology into a world movement.

I don't believe in democracy. In the second place, neither did our white forefathers. I believe, as they did, in a republican authoritarian republic with a limited electorate -- just like the one the writers of our Constitution meant this country to be. When these white Christian patriots sat down to write the Declaration of Independence, there were no black citizens for them to worry about.

I just think you people would be happier back in Africa where you came from.

I think the average Jew is probably sharper intellectually than the average gentile, because for years and years he's had to live by his wits. Consequently, there has evolved a race of Jews who are more agile mentally than the rest of us.

We march and fight, to death or on to victory. Our might is right, no traitors shall prevail. Our hearts are steeled against the fiery gates of hell. No shot or shell, can still our mighty song.

We must have a foreign policy which is based only on the long-term interests of our race, not on the interest of other races or on economic considerations or anything else.

George Lincoln Rockwell

We must have a government which is not only a guarantor of public order and safety and which preserves the right of White citizens to keep and to bear arms, which is the ancient hallmark of a truly free people, but we must have government which maintains an eternal vigilance against the enemies, both internal and external, of a White America.

From Europa's Kitchen...

Finnish Turnip Casserole (Lanttulaatikko)

My husband's grandmother made this for Yule and I can truly say this is an amazing dish, I have made it once or twice myself with good results but nothing compared to how amazing it tastes from the hands of a beloved Finnish Grandmother...

2 medium sized Turnips
1 teaspoon Salt
1/2 teaspoon of Nutmeg
2 Eggs; beaten
3 tablespoons of Butter
1/4 cup Cream
2 tablespoon of Brown sugar; (optional)
1/4 cup of Fine dry bread crumbs

Cook the turnips until they are soft which usually takes about 15 - 20 minutes in salted water. Drain them and mash. Soak the bread crumbs in the cream and stir in nutmeg, salt and beaten eggs. Combine with the mashed turnips. Add the brown sugar (if using) to the beaten eggs before adding to turnips. Turn into a buttered casserole dish, dot the top with the butter, and bake in a moderate oven (350 F.) for 1 hour or until lightly browned on top.

Kids' Corner... Did you know?

Boudicca (who was also known as Boudica, Boudiccea or Boudicea) was a Celtic Queen who lived nearly 2,000 years ago when Britain was part of the Roman Empire.

Boudicca married King Prasudagus, who was King of the Iceni Tribe. They lived in a part of England now known as East Anglia. Norfolk is a county in East Anglia.

A Roman called Dio Cassius wrote that Boudicca was intelligent and tall. He said she had very long, red hair and wore a big gold necklace. Dio Cassius thought she looked terrifying, with fierce eyes and a harsh voice. She carried a big spear to look even more fierce.

When King Prasudagus died in 60AD, The Romans decided they weren't happy with only half of the King's land. So Queen Boudicca went to war with the Romans...The final battle took place in AD61 but nobody knows for sure where it was.

Nothing is safe from Roman pride and arrogance. They will deface the sacred and will deflower our virgins. Win the battle or perish, that is what I, a woman, will do.

— Boudicca, according to Tacitus

SAFETY GUIDELINES FOR CHILDREN ON THE INTERNET

Do not give personal information such as your address, telephone number, parent's work address or telephone number, or the name and location of your School.

Tell your parents if something that you come across online makes you feel uncomfortable.

Never agree to get together with someone you "meet" online without your parents' permission. If your parents agree to the meeting, be sure the meeting is in a public place and that you bring them along.

Never respond to messages or bulletin board items that are suggestive, obscene, belligerent, threatening, or make you feel uncomfortable. Give a copy of such messages to your parents and have them forward it to your Internet service provider.

Never send pictures of yourself or any other personal material to a friend you meet online without telling your parents first.

Follow the rules that your parents set for your online activities.

There are places on the Internet that are for adults only. If you find yourself in one of those areas LEAVE and go to one of the cool places on the Internet for kids.

Getting Outside

Europe is our homeland, and it belongs to no one else but us. The parasitic invasion that is slowly creeping in to our countries may try to take our cities, but they will never take our soil. It is who we are, what has shaped our superior and formidable spirit, and is what ties us to our ancestors. It is our home, not just 'where we live.'

It is always easy to "fight" for our environment and our soil, but in the midst of our zeal to recycle, reduce, and reuse, how often do we actually GO out and enjoy what we're fighting to save? It's so important to save this lost connection to our land. What lies dormant in our spirits is awakened out there, among the careless breezes and blue skies.

It is almost impossible to write only hiking trip in here, as Switzerland holds such immense and unbelievable beauty. This tour is one of my favourites though, so I think it should be first:

This is a beautiful trip that takes you from Gibswil, Täuferhöhle, Bachtel, and then back to Gibswil. The Bachtel is one of the most beautiful viewing points in all of Canton Zürich.

It takes approximately 4 hours, including a small break or two. To get there, take the train from Zürich to Gibswil, and it's easy to start from there. From Zürich, it is about 1 hour, 10 minutes to get to Gibswil.

From Gibswil's train station, take the street in the direction of "Chli Bäretswil" and take the first right turn onto a small street that goes in the direction of the mountain forest. By the edge of the forest, turn right on to the forest path. Later on, you will return to the road until Chli Bäretswil. It's a little difficult to follow the path until Chli, so be sure to bring a map along (1:60000 Zürich) and look for the posts with blue stripes on them.

From Chli, you will take the path in the direction of Bergkamm Stüssel up to the Täuferhöhle, which is behind a waterfall. You'll pass 3 small lakes along the way full of emerald green water, always a nice photo opportunity!

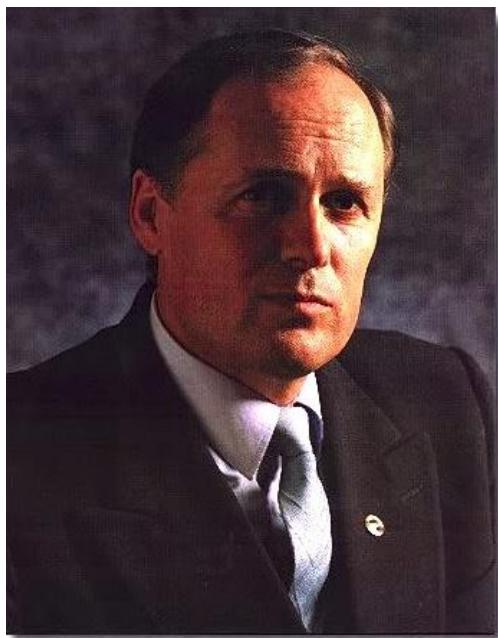

The path then continues in the direction of "Allmen" and then in the direction of "Bachtel."

The Bachtel is a huge tower that you can climb to the top of, just be careful as it is VERY high. The view of the surrounding area is incredible though. The walk from the path up to the Bachtel tower (Bachtel-Kulm) is composed of wooden steps pushed in to the side of the hill, and it is annoyingly strenuous but very worth it. The first iron tower built on this spot was built in 1893, and in 1986 it broke. The new one was built and has been fine ever since. (Hopefully!)

After enjoying the view from the Bachtel, return to the trail in an East direction which goes along the edge of the forest. Then, when the path returns to the paved road, follow the signs back to Gibswil's station and return home. Tell your feet you love them. Hanna – WAU Elements!

Remembering... Doug Christie (1946 - 2013)

Douglas H. Christie
Barrister & Solicitor
Freedom Fighter & Man of Honour

spoke for freedom throughout the world, advocating the importance of individual liberty, and communicating strategies to maximize your freedom.

Throughout his life, Douglas Christie was Canada's most prolific defender of free speech, appearing in the Supreme Court of Canada in the defense of freedom of speech more times than any other counsel in Canada. He consistently argued against laws repressing free speech, and for individual liberty.

He was called to the bar of British Columbia in 1971, and subsequently to the bars of Alberta, Yukon, Saskatchewan, New Brunswick, Manitoba, and Ontario for occasional appearances, as well as Grey's Inn, London. Regardless of where he was practicing, his first priority was always the defense of the individual against great odds.

He was defense counsel for the landmark cases of James Keegstra, Ernst Zundel, Malcolm Ross, John Ross Taylor, Tony McAleer (Canadian Liberty Net), and Imre Finta, all before the Supreme Court of Canada. He argued three appeals of the Ernst Zundel case until the Supreme Court struck down the "false news" law.

As defense counsel in Canada's only war crimes trial (the Imre Finta case), Mr. Christie took part in court proceedings for the defense in Hungary, Israel and Canada. After a 2-year investigation and a 9-month trial, the accused was acquitted without calling evidence, in less than two hours. After the crown's appeal to the Supreme Court, Mr. Christie was successful in having the law severely restricted, and it has never been used again.

Mr. Christie has appeared in the Old Bailey and the Court of Appeal in London, England in the free speech case of Lady Jane Birdwood.

He was defense counsel for Harcus and Scryba in Winnipeg on promotion of hatred charges. The case was dismissed after a 2-week preliminary hearing, with charges pending against the police, due in large measure to Mr. Christie's cross examination skills.

He has succeeded in major defamation actions for the plaintiff in cases where the victim was defamed for speaking out or supporting free speech, as in the Pressler, Ross, and Rocan cases. He acted as defense counsel for many years, working for those whom others would not defend, and built a reputation as an outspoken defender of free speech and individual liberty.

He challenged the powers of big government, the income tax department, big banking institutions, "human rights" commissions, social service bureaucracies, and other forces seeking at times to unjustifiably curtail the liberty of individuals.

He was a major inspirational speaker for freedom and General Counsel for the Canadian Free Speech League a society that defends freedom of expression in Canada.

He spoke at free speech symposia and conferences on individual freedom in Los Angeles, New York, Toronto, Vancouver, England, Germany, throughout the Pacific Rim countries and throughout Western Canada, at high schools, technical schools, private meetings and universities on law, politics and freedom-related issues.

In 1978, he created a political movement for the Independence of Western Canada, to escape big government, called the Western Canada Concept, and spent over thirty years speaking throughout the West, to meetings large and minuscule about the possibility of creating a new nation of Western Canada.

He spoke to Chambers of Commerce, and many special interest groups ranging from such groups as the Victoria Medical Society to the Canadian Bar Association Annual Meeting, and church groups of various denominations.

Beginning in the mid 1980s, Mr. Christie wrote political commentary in the "Western Separatist Papers" and commentary on law in the "Friends of Freedom", a publication which records and analyzes the status of freedom of expression in Canada. Despite Mr. Christie's passing in early 2013, his friends and supporters are working to continue this intellectual legacy.

HEROES & HEROINES

Lotta Svärd (or vernacularly just "lotta") was an organization (1919-44) for Finnish women who voluntarily wanted to defend their nation. Its purpose was to arouse the national and moral attitude, to develop the civil guard –cause and to assist the civil guard to protect the religion, the home and the fatherland. The organization was named by a soldier Svärd's wife in J.L. Runeberg's, Finnish national poet's, poem.

From the start the women of Lotta Svärd organized sewing gatherings, lotteries and rummage sales for the good of the civil guard. The founding of a national organization in 1921 made the activity more systematic and independent. The women of LS started to wear gray outfits and a badge decorated by a blue swastika, which also became the symbol of the organization.

The Lotta Svärd activity was supervised by a central board. Its members were chosen in the annual meeting and its chairperson was named by the supreme commander of the civil guard. The education within the members of LS was improved and regularized. According to each one's field the women were divided into medication division, provisioning division and equipment division, or into fund-raising and office divisions.

During the World War II these women were a significant help for their country; they defended their fatherland by doing "lotta-missions", which could last quite a while for women who had got special education. At homefront their work included for example fund-raising and helping of invalids and relatives of the war dead. Diseases / battles and bombings killed 64 LS-women in the Winter War and 228 LS-women in the Continuation War.

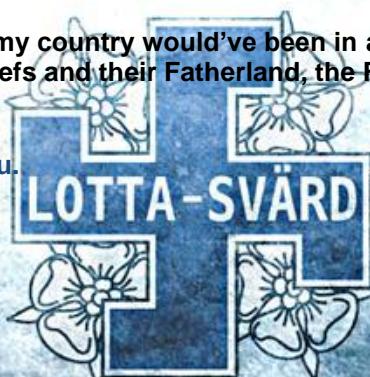

The moral ideals taught to these women were very high and the regulations were strictly controlled. Beside all other activity, the organization worked effectively in teaching rationality, order and punctuality. Many women are used to think that promises, schedules and specific information are not so important, as long as something gets done. In most women's organizations this habit doesn't usually pass away. However, as a woman joined Lotta Svärd, she knew that she had certain responsibilities and principles that were required from her. The attaining of these standards was namely beneficial for all.

Lotta Svärd was closed down on the basis of the truce pact in 1944 because it was considered to be a military organization. The ex-members were demobilized and the funds of the organization were given to the Ministry for Internal Affairs.

Without these women and their bravery my country would've been in a big trouble. If they hadn't done their duty and stood by their people, their beliefs and their Fatherland, the Finland of today would look different.

The Women of Lotta Svärd, we salute you.

Y GENERATION

Compare Australian youth twenty years ago-even ten years ago, to the Australian youth of today and you will see a huge difference between them both. It's not hard to notice that "generation y" are spoilt, angry, and rude and have pretty much no self-control.

What influences them to be like this though?

A lot of young men I know- even young women, have serious problems- showing outrageous behaviour, such as low morals, being unfaithful and indulging greatly in alcohol. In this time, we the younger generation do not have ANY positive role models to look up to. Is it any wonder then why we have such a generation?

Recently in the news, we are exposed to many Sportsmen who are taking drugs, going to brothels and are still being praised; instead of being punished they somehow find their way back to the spotlight, without ever having to deal with what they have done wrong.

Another example is our ex-prime minister "Kevin Rudd". In 2007, (the same year he was elected as our prime minister!) a report came out stating that the new prime minister had treated himself to a nice night down at the strippers, giving out generous amounts of tax payer money! Rather than having many people disapprove, we found many people thinking "Good on him! That's hilarious!"

That's just the male role models! If you stop and think about what the women of Australia have to look up to, it is disgraceful!

Young females are being told to look up to our new Prime minister. We are told that we should aspire to be like her, just because she is our first Female Prime Minister. All I see when I look at her though, is a Communist; she was secretary for the left-wing Socialist Forum when she was in University, and a feminist, who in the past has been alleged to have female relations. Who wants to aspire to be that? She is teaching the young women of Australia that lying will get you every-thing, and that it will get you where you want to be in the future!

How are we meant to grow up on the correct path if we have people like this to look up too? This is where you come into it! If we do not have positive role models in the spotlight, we are going to turn to those who are closer to us- family and friends.

For me, I have always grown up in an environment where there was a positive role model to look up to. I didn't have a mother that I could strive to be like so I was always looking for that someone to have as a hero and I found that in my grandmother. I wanted to be nothing like my mother who would have just lead me down the path of drugs and low morals.

In the White Pride Movement here in Australia, there are both female and male positive role models, who a lot of the younger Folk look up too. I know for me being a young woman, there are some ladies who i strive to be like, who have lead me on to the right path. I believe that this should be something to be proud of, to know that you are inspiring the young to grow into some-thing amazing.

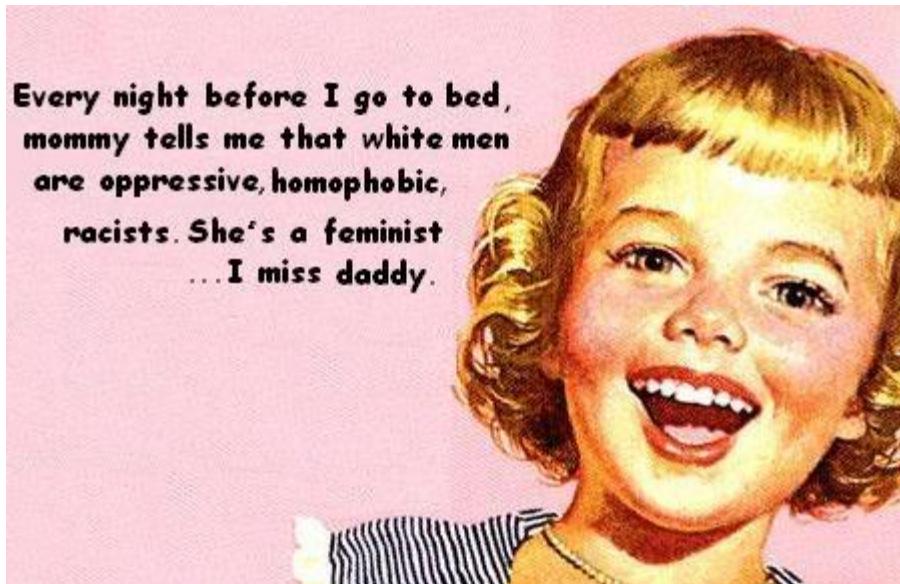

Next time you are drinking and you pick up that glass of alcohol when you know you shouldn't. Next time you are flirting with that person who isn't your partner, stop, take a look around you and realise that there are young people watching, following your every footstep, striving to be exactly like you. Copying your behaviour because we believe it's the right way to act.

It just takes one positive, morally correct person to change the attitude of many. Think to yourself next time you are doing something that you know is not right, "Do I want to be the person who inspires the younger generation or do I want to be the person who takes them down the wrong path?

The Evil that is Feminism!

In 40 short years, many women have lost touch with their natural loving instincts. Consequently, the family is in disarray, sexual depravity is rampant and birth rates have plummeted. Feminism, masquerades as a movement for women's rights. In reality, feminism is a cruel hoax, telling women their natural biological instincts are "socially constructed" to oppress them. Feminism is elite social engineering designed to destroy gender identity by making women masculine and men feminine. Increasingly heterosexuals are conditioned to be-have like homosexuals who generally don't marry and have children. Courtship and monogamy are being re-placed by sexual promiscuity. Through the agendas of feminism, abortion, divorce, homosexuality, tax-exempt charities, liberal religion, and many others, Western countries are being completely devastated. Who is behind modern Feminism, none other than the Jews, the Rockefellers and Rothschild's created feminism to poison male-female relations (divide and conquer.) Their twin objectives are depopulation and totalitarian world government. Why? These bankers create money out of nothing and think they are God. Nicholas Rockefeller admitted to Aaron Russo while trying to recruit him for the CFR (council of foreign relations) that his family foundation created women's liberation using mass media control as part of a long-term plan to enslave humanity. He admitted they want to "chip us."

The matriarch of modern Feminism, Betty Friedan was, under her maiden name Betty Goldstein, a political activist and professional propagandist for the Communist left for a quarter of a century before the publication of "The Feminist Mystique" launched the modern women's movement. In the so called bible of modern feminism, "The Feminine Mystique" (1963) Betty Friedan's description of America's suburban family household as "a comfortable concentration camp" had more to do with her Marxist hatred for America than with her actual experience as a housewife or mother, seeing as she had housekeepers and nannies.

"They were reduced to childlike preoccupation with food, elimination, the satisfaction of primitive bodily needs; they had no privacy and no stimulation from the outside world. But above all, they were forced to spend their days in work which produced great fatigue...required no mental concentration, gave no hope of advancement or recognition, was sometimes senseless, and was controlled by the needs of others..."

Clearly Friedan is talking about mothers. Comparing the nurturing of their children to brutal slavery is psycho-logical warfare of the most vicious kind. Friedan, who hid the fact that she was a paid Communist activist, should have been denounced as a hate monger. Instead she was celebrated as the new oracle and received honorary degrees and fellowships at Harvard, Yale and Columbia. Saturday Review called her book "a scholarly work, appropriate for serious study" and anthropologist Ashley Montagu said it was "the wisest, sanest, soundest, most understanding and compassionate treatment of American woman's greatest problem."

Feminism fits the elite's depopulation agenda. Since 1963, when "The Feminine Mystique" was published we have experienced an unprecedented breakdown in the family. More than half of all children are now born out of wedlock; the number of single parent households has tripled. In "The Broken Hearth," William Bennett writes: "Most of our social pathologies, crime, imprisonment rates, welfare, educational underachievement, alcohol and drug abuse, suicide, depression, STD's, are manifestations, direct and indirect, of the crack-up of the American family.

Reproduction requires the most delicate care. In the case of human beings, the female must be prepared for motherhood and honoured for her contribution to society. The male must be shown that the standard of manhood is to provide leadership and sustenance for mother and children. Both mother and father must be able to give their children intellectual and spiritual guidance.

Instead, in schools and universities, the tender shoots of feminine sexuality are crushed under the feminist jackboot. Young women are taught that heterosexual sex, marriage and family are inherently oppressive. Homosexuality on the other hand is an act of rebellion that is "chic" and "normal."

"Those who want to destroy the family will continue to urge mothers to leave the home and 'become fulfilled in the workplace.' When the mother goes into the workplace to become 'fulfilled,' or to increase the family's income, she leaves the care of the children to others. Those who warn against such practices will continue to be scorned by the feminists and others who have a hidden agenda: they want to destroy the family."

Adopt a Brüder

davidlane1488.com

While you are out buying beer, candy, fast food or just pondering what to do with your time and money you could be helping a Brüder in need! When they are released, how many of you will jump at a chance to meet them face-to-face? How many of you will be willing to admit that you blatantly ignored our numerous requests for aid on their behalf? How on earth will you justify it? I hope word does not reach these men and women about the sad state of things on the outside, where we have to resort to begging and chastising in order to generate a little bit of support. With each person contributing a little money, a little time, and a stamp, we can show these men our gratitude and support. By each doing what we can within our own means, we can combine our efforts to make a considerable difference. Those who may have thought a small contribution was pointless before may be more inclined to send support when they know others are doing the same. This is an instance where every little bit counts, and it is the "little bits" that will make this program a success. Right now only 3 mothers consistently give monetary support to members of Robert J Mathews Brüder Schweigen, every time you quote RJM, David Eden Lane, Bruce Carroll Pierce know that you wilfully ignore their Brüders that are still incarcerated, if let's say a chapter of an organisation has 3-4 members in said chapter and they all donated 10 each per month that means a Brüder gets $40 from them and that works out at about 50 cents each or less a day, put a jar in your house and put in 50 cents a day in your jar!

Some of OUR kin are in for jail for life. Some, however, will be out in the foreseeable future. I hope that you have an excellent explanation for your actions, because when you go to shake their hands and kiss their asses, we will be sure that your disgraceful and wilful choice to ignore them will not be forgotten.

From experience I know how rewarding it is to write to these men and women, I have grown up and became an adult with at least a handful of these men and women, I still have three prisoners that I have been writing to for 22 years, they have been my teachers, my guide, my confidant's and more importantly my friends. Without them in my life I would not have aspired to seek the truth and more importantly find the answers. I feel truly blessed to have each of them in my life; they help make me the person I am today.

It is now up to you to pick up your pen and start corresponding with our men and women in ZOGs Gulags, when they become part of your life you will wonder how to made it this far without their friendship, loyalty and knowledge.

Learning to use a cup

Practice, practice, practice! Learning to drink from a cup is like learning to crawl, or sit up or walk. There are going to be lots of failures before it is perfected.

Keep offering your little one the cup. Help them to bring it to their mouth without it all 'gushing' out at once. Make sure the liquid is a temperature they are used to so that they are not surprised, causing them to spit it back out. It may even help to have the liquid be one they are already familiar with, such as your expressed milk, so that the novelty of the whole situation is not too overwhelming.

While they are practicing and perfecting this technique, you can be sure they are getting enough liquid by not counting on it as part of their fluid intake, but rather by continuing to nurse. Remember also, they are getting a lot of fluid from the foods that they eat. Fruits and vegetables naturally contain lots of water.

Keep some washcloths nearby to clean up those spills and good luck!

Night Terrors

I thought that I'd discuss night terrors, something which unfortunately I know a lot about. A lot of children have them (like my son did) but it is the most frightening thing to see as a mother.

Night terrors – are a relatively common occurrence that appears mostly in young children, typically between the ages of 3 to 5 years. Two to 3% (some sources say as much as 5%) of all children will experience episodes of night terrors. By the time they reach school age, most of these children will have outgrown these generally harmless events.

A night terror is not the same thing as a nightmare. Nightmares occur during the dream phase of sleep known as REM sleep (this stands for Rapid Eye Movement; also known as "dreaming" sleep). The circumstances of the nightmare will frighten the child, who usually will wake up with a vivid memory of a long movie-like dream. Night terrors, on the other hand, occur during a phase of deep non-REM sleep - usually an hour or two after the child goes to bed, which is the strangest thing about night terrors... the stage of sleep that night terrors occur in are supposedly when the brain is void of much activity. During a night terror, which may last anywhere from a few minutes up to an hour, the child is still asleep. Their eyes may be open, but they are not awake. When they wake up, they will have absolutely no recollection of the episode other than a sense of fear, although with my son, he had absolutely no recollection at all and would think we were joking. Night terrors can be mild or severe, usually reaching a peak after a few days or weeks of reoccurring. With my son, his started out as just sitting up in bed crying uncontrollably, they started worsening when he started actually getting out of bed and coming into the living room, sitting on the floor and crying. The pinnacle of his night terrors occurred one week, when he was absolutely inconsolable and had long (half an hour plus) night terrors that even when we put him back in bed, he would sit and stare at his walls and scream. The worst one he had was about a month into his kindergarten year. He ran out into our living room and tried to get out of the house through the front door. That scared me to death because if we had not been sitting in the living room, he would have gotten out of the house. The only good thing about this episode is that it seems that it was his last one.

It's a helpless feeling since the more you try to comfort your child, the more they will become agitated...they don't know that you're there, they see whatever their night terror is about. My son described his terrors when he was experiencing them as worms or snakes climbing his walls. He was almost impossible to restrain, thrashing more the more we tried to help him. The only thing that worked was my husband started to just gently walk him back to bed and he would usually get into bed without much protest.

No one knows what causes night terrors. They seem to be genetic, as I found with my son. His cousins had them and his father had what I thought were nightmares before I actually saw a night terror, but thinking back, they were most likely night terrors. Stress and fatigue also aid to their occurrence. My son's night terrors peaked when we moved into a new house and he started kindergarten, not too stressful in my eyes as we moved into a larger house where he had his own room and kindergarten seems to be the least stressful time in a kid's life, but I guess not for my son. If a child seems to be distressed, to talk to them about their anxieties seems to help.

There isn't much that can be done to prevent night terrors, doctors recommend tracking the pattern and times of the night terrors and waking them up 5-10 minutes before they usually occur, but since night terrors don't always occur every night that can really disturb a child's sleep waking up a few hours after falling asleep. When my son's night terrors started escalating, I consulted parent resources online because I wanted to see what other parents had done for their children instead of disturbing their sleep every night to try to combat the night terrors. Overwhelmingly, parents had said that keeping their children's feet uncovered, no socks and no blankets, seemed to quell the night terrors. Also, if their children actually got out of bed in a night terror, they would lead them to the bathroom and fill the tub with a little cold water. They would put the child's feet in the tub and the child would calm down. No one could give any explanation as to why these worked, but I started uncovering my son's feet in bed and it worked. Although I never had to dunk his feet in the tub, I am assured by parents who have done it that it works.

Fast Facts about Night Terrors:

Run in families.

Can last 10-20 minutes.

Occur in stage 4 of the sleep cycle.

Can happen at any age 6 months - adulthood

IN ISSUE #8...

A Brothers Thoughts.....

What I have learnt has led me to laugh bitterly at this movement. The vast majority has its head stuck in the clouds in one form or another. There is nothing to be proud of about our current situation. It is a far cry from "Victory", or even reality for that matter.

A lot base their beliefs on a lie, because they are White, they are therefore, best fit, predestined, and therefore must prevail. They depend on nature to be merciful; they depend on numerous gods to prevail on their behalf. In fact they depend on everything but themselves, literally, to save them.

They really believe that the white race is due victory, period. But we are not due anything as history has shown time and time again. The weak will be smashed, first their minds will crumble then their bodies, 90% of their action is speech and music, and all they have to say is that the white race is mighty, that our past is mighty, and so our future is mighty.

They say the non-whites are lowly scum, animals, one and all, yet we are acting like we are scared of them, if the movement is our Warrior element, then we are in deep shit. They are by far a bunch of fat, drunken, degenerate, undisciplined, ignorant slobs, undependable, irresponsible and just plain pitiful pathetic examples of all things Aryan; they are believers in the unseen, the unknown, and the unproven.

Incarcerated Prisoner of War!

Motherhood...

Motherhood a fortress of generations past, present and future. After all, isn't it women who bore the physical conditions of childbirth? If not for the European women where would the proud European men plant his seed? Our men have their measure of obligations to fulfil and they do so with honour and pride. As women, we have obligations to meet too and most do so with the same type of revere.

Our communities are infested with diverse cultural practices. Foreign manners are disclosed our children are being subjected to this. In some schools, white children are forced to take foreign language classes. Their heads are being filled with debris from cultures other than their own. Perhaps if we could look at these things as educational exercises then they might have some merit, but they are not being used for educations sake. They are being used to disassemble what our ancestors worked so hard to put together.

We create our children with love. Let's raise them with love. They come into this world looking up to us - reaching out to us for guidance and nurturing. We have the ability to share our perceptions with our children and to teach them about faith, order, security, strength, patience, labour, reason, and yes even of struggle.

The most precious gift, though besides love that we can give to our white children is the gift of recognition. Recognition of whom and what they are. We can teach them to recognize and to hold dear the integrity of white existence.

Motherhood - A fortress of generations past, present and future. As women....as mothers, we can do our part to secure a promising future for our Folk. - European Purity is our Nations Security.

Culture Under Fire

Culture - the skill, arts, etc. of a given people in a given period. One of the major problems in recent years among our youth has been that of identity. When you ask them why they are engaged in certain outlandish acts, they will invariably reply "I am merely doing my own thing". This is a commendable attitude, if it can be channelled in the proper direction.

Every place you look in society it is easy to see the impact of what has become known as the "Hip-Hop" culture. Everyday more and more children and even adults are falling into the cesspool of today. White children are the most susceptible to the influence of what is called the "Hip-Hop culture". The reason for this is because they feel un-cool if they are not part of the "in" crowd. They get this feeling of "un-cool" from TV, magazines, music and from friends at school. This is what a German born U.S. psychoanalyst has to say about ideology; "Ideologies are administered by bureaucracies that control their meaning. They develop systems; they decide what is right and what is wrong thinking. Who is faithful and who is a heretic; in short, the manipulation of ideologies becomes one of the most important means for the control of people through the control of their thoughts". Erich Fromm

Our children are being taught that if they have anything to do with being proud of their historical past or anything that has to do with understanding who their ancestors were or being proud of their racial heritage is wrong. So in order to "fit-in" they adopt a false culture so that they are not shunned by society. We cannot expect our children to learn Folkish values on their own. We must expose the lies they are being taught. Education starts in the home not at school. They are with you almost five years before they start school.

I know it seems kind of young and they might not understand much of what you say, but the soil of a child's mind is very fertile and a seed planted and "watered" with love and dedication will bear the fruit of knowledge, and understanding. Our children will grow up with the image of the reflection of what they learned from us. It is natural for a child to want to explore as this is part of the learning process, but we must be there to point out and educate the pros and cons of every action and decision they make.

A child today is the future tomorrow. Only through our children will we live on. I cannot express enough the need to educate our white children. By education and through dedication to our children and our folk we will only become stronger. Don't let your child fall victim to lies or influence. Our hearts beat as one and as one we shall become. Before we educate, we must become educated. Our children cannot pass on their European values unless they are taught the importance of learning and passing them on.

The greatest triumph of our educational method should always be this: "To bring about the spontaneous progress of the child" - Maria Montessori, Italian Physician, and Educator. Our Folk means the world to us...Past Present and Future.

EFF 'killing' banner causes outrage in Cape Town

A picture showing a red banner with the words "A revolutionary must become a cold killing machine motivated by pure hate" was quickly shared on various social networks on Monday. Another picture shows a banner saying "Honeymoon is over for white people in South Africa". "I also saw 'we need to kill them like they killed us' banners yesterday," User Qaanitah Hunter said in a Tweet.

"I'm not aware of that banner," EFF's national spokesperson Mbuyiseni Ndlozi told News24. "It's not official".

Cameron Modisane, an EFF supporter who posted numerous pictures of the launch on his Twitter profile, also responded to some of the outrage on Twitter. He said the banner was created and paid for by the Katlehong branch members. "This is not to advocate for killing of people but rather equality," he said. "Our greatest enemy within EFF is white monopoly capital. "Hundreds of people gathered in Marikana, North West for the launch of Julius Malema's EFF party on Sunday. Malema, once an outspoken supporter of Zuma and a former president of the ANC Youth League, formed the party after being expelled from the ANC. According to its constitution, the EFF is a radical, left wing, anti-capitalist, and anti-imperialist movement. The party claims it provides clear and cogent alternatives to post-colonial economic systems, which in many countries had kept the oppressed under colonial domination. The party advocates the expropriation of South Africa's land without compensation, and the nationalisation of mines, banks, and other strategic sectors of the economy.

Sexual Violence in South Africa

The rate of sexual violence in South Africa is among the highest in the world. Sexual violence is the use of force or manipulation to get someone to engage in unwanted sexual activity without his or her consent. An estimated of 500,000 rape cases take place in the country, every year. Women's groups in South Africa estimate that a woman is raped every 26 seconds, the South African police estimates that a woman is raped every 36 seconds, I guess those 10 seconds make a huge difference to the police of South Africa. More than 25% of a sample of 1,738 South African men from the KwaZulu-Natal and Eastern Cape Provinces admitted to raping someone when anonymously questioned; of these, nearly half said they had raped more than one person, according to a non-peer reviewed policy brief issued by the Medical Research Council (MRC).

South Africa has some of the highest incidences of child and infant rape in the world. In 2001, it was reported by the South African Police Service that children are the victims of 41 percent of all rapes reported in the country. Although there are varying numbers on the number of reported rapes of children, one report states that in 2000, 21,538 rapes and attempted rapes of children under the age of 18 were reported and another from 2001 states that there were 24,892 rapes.
